nLogic named in the 'Principal® 10' for great employee benefits

According to the Principal Financial Group, Huntsville defense contracting company nLogic is one of the top 10 businesses in the country for providing exceptional benefits to its workers.

The employee-owned company – founded in 2005 as an offshoot of Torch Technologies – experienced revenue growth of 44 percent last year while never cutting back on any benefits to its people.

“Companies who treat their employees this well are few and far between,” said Principal Financial Group regional client service director Deborah Kobakof at a Sept. 13 ceremony at the Davidson Center. “nLogic is one of them... Outstanding corporations like nLogic deserve to be recognized.”

Part of the recognition includes congratulatory ads for nLogic in The Wall Street Journal and Inc. Magazine. nLogic was also given $2,500 to donate to its favorite charity, the Huntsville Hospital Foundation.

Tim Thornton, president and CEO of nLogic, said protecting employees’ financial security starts with making sure employees have a stable work environment.

“We’ve worked hard to grow the company so when we have a downturn in certain areas, we’ve been able to move our people over to new program areas,” he explains. “That growth has allowed us to continue to protect our people and sustain our benefits.”

Employees have also established nLogic nAbles, a 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization to award monetary grants to worthy community causes. •
